Intro

Welcome to our October issue of the CU NSBE Newsletter! We have a lot in store for this month and we are excited to share it with you!

Values/ Goals

Our values are to foster academic excellence, collaboration, and representation. Our goals for this month are to increase member engagement through events and activities.

Why you should Join

If you're feeling out of place at a predominantly white institution (PWI), NSBE provides a supportive community for Black STEM majors, offering a space where you can connect, grow, and thrive.

Professionalism

NSBE helps students enhance their professional skills and expand their knowledge of a wide range of opportunities they can leverage for career growth.

Impact

Joining this organization will boost your confidence in yourself and your chosen path. Plus, its members are always ready to offer support and advice whenever you need it.

Conferences

About Fall Regional Conference

FRC is an annual three-day event where collegiate and professional members from Region 1 gather for networking opportunities, workshops, and a career fair.

This conference is a great opportunity to present any research that you have been working on and to see how big the NSBE community is.

Upcoming

We have an upcoming FRC on November 15th - 17th in Stamford, Connecticut. Applications are closed.

About National Convention

Nationals is the biggest NSBE event where different NSBE chapters from across the country come together.

This is a four-day event that will include professional and personal development activities along with technical and scientific competitions. New national and regional leaders will be elected, and the Golden Torch Awards will be hosted.
